THE THIRD DAY.

Races of the Pacific Coast Blood-Horse Association.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—The third day's races of the Pacific Coast Blood-Horse Association, at Oakland Park, the first dash, seven-eights of a mile, was won by Jim Douglas; no time taken. The second race, one mile and one-sixteenth, for three-year-old fillies, won very easily by George Haggins' "Lilac." The last, Spanish song and Aunt Betsy, third. The conditions were $25 each, with $200 added and the time was 1:52. The third race with the "Palio Alto" stake, $25 each, and $200 added, was won by "Lilac" in 1:18, in the fastest manner by the "Palio Alto" filly by Monday from Florence Anderson. Mr. Haggins' "Mileta" was second. The fourth event was a mile and five hundred yards for a favorite. She won a very easy race in 2:14. Dicks of Monday being second and "Lilac" third, while Gersimer and Joe G. came in fourth. The proceedings terminated with a virtual walk-over for Hattie B. in the hurdle, her only opponent, Mollie H., floundering in the rear.

FRUITS AND FLOWERS.

Resolution by the State Horticultural Society.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 17.—The fruit growers and dealers of California held a session this morning in the Grand Hotel building in response to a suggestion made for an exhibition of California fruits and flowers during the Triennial Concclave. All the prominent members of the State Horticultural Society were present and the following resolution was adopted: We, the fruit growers of the State, are most respectfully invited to contribute to an impartial display of fruits and flowers for the entertainment of the Triennial Concclave during the next Triennial Concclave. All contributions should be addressed to the "Ladies' Entertainment Committee" of the Triennial Concclave at Mechanics Hall, San Francisco. The Chairman stated that all fruits forwarded by the Central Pacific Railroad Company, or Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express would be free of charge, laid down in the city.

GENERAL DISPATCHES.

The Kress Court-Martial.

WALTON, Aug. 17.—The record of the military case against Captain John A. Kress of the Ordnance Department, was arrived at the War Department to-day. Captain Kress was in charge of the work of erecting barracks at San Antonio, Texas, and was tried here for disregard to orders in making experiments to be used to reduce costs so that the appropriation was exhausted when the buildings were little more than half finished. It is understood the court has recommended a reprimand.

London Accidents.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—It is reported that the express train between Paris and Amsterdam met with an accident between Molines and Vilvoord, Belgium, and that several passengers were killed.

Attacking the Jews.

LONDON, August 17.—A mob of five hundred men attacked the Jewish quarters in Prague on Wednesday night. The rioters were dispersed before doing much damage. The mob of rioters is causing much alarm among the authorities of Austria. The Police and military officers are ordered to crush out with the utmost energy every outbreak of violence. The majority of the populace and six police were wounded in the riot at Agron on Tuesday. They subsequently forced the jail and released the rioters.

Saints' Mass.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Salini Morse has made an assignment to Geo. Roberts and Albert T. Ever of his lease of the theater, and left him for the introduction of the "Prophet." The lease is for five years at $15,000 a year, with the privilege of renewal.

Broadband Earnings.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—The approximate gross earnings of the Denver and Rio Grande Railway, including the Utah leased lines, second week of August, are $130,000, against $112,000 corresponding week a year ago. The increased earnings since the first of January are $40,000.

The False Prophet Again.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 17.—Two thousand Bedouins attended the Sanitarium at Siski and were repulsed with a loss of sixty killed. The Bedouins defending the place lost seven men. Five civilians were killed. Siski is a town of fifty miles from Siski, a town in Nubia, on the Red sea. The attack was instigated by the False Prophet. It is reported that Siski is also threatened with attack.

Two Deaths.

BELFAST, Aug. 17.—Rev. Robert Knox, one of the leaders of the Presbyterian Council, is dead.

QUEBEC, Aug. 17.—A man named Parrott died here, suddenly of Canadian cholera.

Water Feature at Galveston.

GALVESTON, Aug. 17.—The city is on the verge of a water famine. Cisterne and tanks have dried up and the effects of drought are plainly seen in the poverty of the vegetable market. For weeks many persons have been depending on the liberality of neighbors for water enough to drink, having exhausted their own supply.

Strikingly Arrested.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 17.—Warrants have been issued for the arrest of a gang of assassins. O'Brien and Harry Schwab, with intent to kill. Schwab was injured on his way home this morning and was assaulted by a party of ten strikers, only three of whom had failed to recognize the one of them who was armed. The other two have yet to appear; the other two have yet to appear.

Cowboy Texas Robbers.

GALVESTON, Aug. 17.—Last night a Texas Central train was boarded at Bryan by four ruffians, armed with revolvers. Their evident intention was to rob the sleeper without attracting the attention of the balance of the train, but an altercation with the conductor aroused the passengers and the quartet fled.

Pacific Coast Brevities.

MARSHVILLE, Aug. 17.—The temporary railroad bridge replacing the one burned last week was completed this morning and trains are now running as usual.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—General Manager Towne of the Central Pacific Railroad, announces that the new schedule of passenger and freight rates will be put into effect on Sunday next, the 19th inst.

A special session yesterday of the Grand Grove of Druids of California, a resolution repealing the endowment law was passed. The grove, which is to be the home of any member who may have in good standing, a compulsory tax of fifty cents being levied on members to cover the amount.

THE ELOQUENCE OF OUR PRODUCTION.

The proposition has been made that an exhibition of California fruits be inaugurated, to be held during the Triennial week, at San Francisco. The suggestion is a wise one. The State Horticultural Society has taken hold of the matter in earnest, and a meeting has been called in San Francisco by that Society to mature the plans for the project. There will be no better method offered than this to advertise the resources of the State, and every county and section should be fully represented. The most remote fruit-grower should respond to the invitation to send the best that he has among his stores. Our Eastern visitors will be convinced by the logic of such a display that California is without a rival in the excellence and variety of her productions. The reports of what may be and has been accomplished under the favorable conditions supplied by our soil and climate, have been regarded as largely exaggerated statements, by those living at the east, and there is no surer remedy for this skepticism than this proposed exhibition. The logic of results is beyond question or dispute. All that is necessary for those who are desirous of showing the productions of their orchards is to neatly box up their best specimens, giving the variety of the fruit, the name of the exhibitor and any other pertinent facts that would be of interest, and ship the same to the Mechanics' Pavilion, care of the State Horticultural Society. Los Angeles should not be behind in this matter, for her productions are the most eloquent and weighty testimonials that could be afforded as to the productiveness of this section of the State, and its desirability for those who are in search of a place for homes.

THE MEXICAN TRADE.

The Mexican trade seems to be gradually slipping away from the grasp of this coast—simply from the lack of interest in, and the inattention of our merchants to the importance of that portion of it lying along our southern borders. The East is reaching out steadily and grasping the opportunities which rightfully belong to us, and which we should be quick to seize, and there is no question but Mexican traffic is surely drifting towards Eastern cities. San Francisco is losing several millions annually through her want of action in this border trade. An exchange says that "at Guaymas a few days since there were thirteen commercial travelers registered from St. Louis; eight from Chicago, seven from Denver; three from Kansas City, and none from San Francisco. Have our merchants nothing to sell, that no representatives of their houses are in the Mexican country? The Chihuahua Mail, an English paper published in that state, says that Chicago and St. Louis are making desperate efforts to attract the attention of Mexican merchants, and are offering the most liberal inducements in trade!" And all this is taking place when San Francisco can supply the wants of our sister Republic at cheaper rates than any other American city. But Mexico is not going to beg us to look after our own interests in our commercial relations with her. If we would secure her important trade we must make an effort to obtain it. It will not be a pleasant thing to contemplate in the future if we let this golden opportunity slip from us, beyond our reach. The frozen fact will face us that there was nobody to blame but ourselves.

The Six Companies have ordered Chinatown, San Francisco, to be cleaned up and renovated, so that no smells and foul odors shall offend the knightly nostrils during the Conclave. The effect will be good, and that portion of the city, probably, will not "smell to heaven," as it has heretofore done, for some time to come, at least. It would be a blessing if some authority would promulgate a like order in the Chinese quarters of Los Angeles. Wouldn't it be wisdom if our city fathers would emulate the example of the six companies? Do it, and the community will rise up and call you blessed.

We transfer from the columns of our bright young contemporaries, the Western Wave, of this date, several interesting articles, credit for which we cheerfully give to the conductors of that journal.

The telegraphers' strike has failed. The cause of the strikers was by no means without elements of justice, but the strike was entered into unwisely.

The devil's beverage is not wholly water.

The Appointment of Postmasters.

At 5 o'clock p.m. yesterday the compositors at work on the DAILY TIMES marched out of the office in a body, after notifying the manager of their intention to strike unless a certain alleged grievance was redressed. The striking employees chose the hour when work for the night is begun on the paper, obviously with the purpose of adding as much as possible to the embarrassment of the proprietors and with the evident hope of preventing, at the least, the issue of the paper this morning.

In order to set the matter right before the public, and to remove any possible suspicion of unfair treatment of its employees by the TIMES, the following brief statement of the facts is issued:

Yesterday a member of the Typographical Union at work in the office was discharged by the proprietors, not for being a "Union man" as will doubtless be claimed by the strikers, but for incompetency, neglect of duty, and objectionable and improper conduct.

The remaining compositors, with the exception of the foreman, who did not join the strikers, objected to the discharge of the man, and also claimed certain other rights which do not belong to them as individuals or as a labor union.

In other words, they claim in effect the right to dictate to the proprietors the course they shall pursue in the management of the office, and the right to take upon themselves, as the segment of a union, the authority to say who shall or shall not be employed in this office. The proprietors of the TIMES claim the same right of choosing their employees as is exercised by employers everywhere, and they do not recognize the right of persons in their employ to dictate to them the management of the office. The question of wages does not enter into this strike.

The TIMES pays the highest prevailing rates, and pay-day in this office is as regular as the sun. The proprietors, moreover, have no desire or intention of making a reduction of wages.

The strikers have no justification whatever, either as individuals or members of the Union, and their action will result in more injury to themselves than anybody else. Their places were promptly filled last night, and the TIMES appears as usual this morning, but for the benefit of the disaffected compositors, (some of whom showed a disposition last night to interfere with the work of those who remained loyal to their duty and took the places unjustifiably vacated by the strikers,) the statement is made that the paper will continue to be published from day to day. The TIMES stops not for trifles—and this causes strike is a trifle, as we shall demonstrate to these unwise strikers before we have done with them. We are confident in the justice of our position, and—

"IN HOC SIGNO VINCES."

This distinguished Mason, now the guest of the Sir Knights of California, was born August 14, 1824, in Lancaster, England. He was made a Master Mason, April 1, 1838, and received in the Molay Chapter in 1854. He was Grand Captain-General of the Grand Encampment of the United States from 1871 to 1874, elected Grand Commander in 1877, and Grand Master of the Grand Encampment in Chicago, in 1880, and has discharged the duties of this honorable and responsible position with discretion and ability, giving general satisfaction. Possessing a large family, he has a large number of call of the suffering and distressed like a harbor to the sea; he is a true exponent of the ancient and valiant Knights who defended their swords in the cause of justice and freedom, and the Christian religion. His keen sense of honor and affable bearing have won him hosts of friends and adherents, and his presence at the Grand Conclave in 1877, as Grand Master of Maine, has discharged the duties of this honorable and responsible position with discretion and ability, giving general satisfaction.

PRINTING AND BINDING
There is nothing in the Printing and Binding of Books, Magazines, News-papers, etc., in Southern California, is not prepared to meet the wants of the public. We publish in the State, Books, magazines and periodicals in English and Spanish. Morality, sheepskin, in any style desired. Our work is guaranteed to be equal to that done in San Francisco.

Suppose a Case.

If you are not ready to admit that the liquor traffic is a cruel business, take this case.

For the sake of revenue, government sells to a man the privilege of opening a bar-room, with the understanding that the bar-keeper is to sell all the whisky he can and to whom he may.

Near that bar-room lives a poor widow with an only son. His father was killed under Stone-wall Jackson in the valley. That widow, in order to give that boy an education, toils day and night for half a score of years, growing more feeble with each year; for she is rapidly wasting her life away. But she loves her dear boy, the image of his dead father, and she hopes that by-and-by, not very long hence, when she is no longer able to work—that boy of hers, grown to manhood, and with mind well stored with useful knowledge, will be her stay, support and comfort. And she toils on and on, but oh, so weary.

At length the goal is reached. The boy graduates with honors, and comes home to the fond embrace of a self-sacrificing mother, who thinks she sees at last the dawn of rest, and peace and happiness.

But, ah! a few weeks only have passed ere she sees a vision of darkness, disappointment and death. Her boy has found his way into that licensed saloon and his manner toward her is rapidly changing. He is no longer the kind-hearted, the thoughtful, the dutiful son. His eyes are bleared and red, his tongue is stiff; his gait is unsteady, and with each day his visits become more frequent to the bar room. Hope dies within her breast: To whom, now, may she appeal? Who will help her? Her son is set—he to whom she looked for comfort in old age, has become to her the greatest of all troubles. What is that she sees across the street? Murky! Somebody—she pushes him aside, crosses the street and into the bar room! There—there he lies! Her boy, dead—killed by a drunk-en ruffian!

Her cup is full! Life to her has been toll, anxiety, trouble. But now the heart breaks for it can bear no more. This is what the cruel traffic does; and yet the State maintains the traffic and many professed Christians are consenting to the cruel policy.

Cruel! Cruel!—Spirit of the Age, of Raleigh, N. C.

GEORGIA.

Georgia has now 68' counties out of 137 that prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors within their borders. It is estimated by many who are in a position to know that fully one-half of the area of the State is under prohibition, either by vote of the people under local option or by special legislative enactment.

The laws of the State of Georgia leave it optional with the Ordinary of any county to grant or refuse to grant license for the sale of liquor in the county outside of incorporated towns. In a recent conversation with Comptroller General Wright he said to me that, to the best of his knowledge, 32' counties in the State licensed the sale of liquor. Take away the charters of all incorporated towns and cities in the State, and three-fourths of the State would be under prohibition.

Our General Assembly is now in session. Already a number of bills are before the body for counties and localities asking for prohibition, or for local option, which in Georgia means the same thing. Perhaps the most gratifying feature of all is that in all the contests by a vote of the people under local option, but one has been lost, and that at the late contest in Washington County.

We insist, that the only one thing needed to set aside the local prohibition of the liquor traffic for the whole country is thorough education in relation to its evils.—People's Advocate, of Atlanta, Ga.

Worth Remembering.

That the past and present may know what uneven justice we have measured out in this vicinity, we think it well to put on record the item sent us by a correspondent:

Littlefield stole a horse; bail fixed, by Justice of Peace, at $1,000. Foster, who had been put out of a respectable attorney's office for vile language, bought a pistol and attempted to assassinate the unarmed attorney as he was opening his door. Bail fixed by Justice of Peace, $500, reduced by Superior Court to 250

Difference in favor of attempt to assassinate 750

The horse thief lies in jail and will be given quick work. The would-be assassin walks the streets, and will be tried when at last his trial can't be longer kept off, for "shooting at a man in a row," but not for what he tried to do.

Large Dynamos and Small Speed.

M. J. E. H. Gordon, the eminent English electrician, has been a strong advocate of small dynamos driven at a high speed. Now, after a costly series of experiments, he finds that a large machine driven at a comparative slow rate gives incomparably the best result, and does not endanger life by flying to pieces.

DRAKAN TEAR.

ARKANSAW TRAVELLER.

"Boys, I won't drink lesson you what I do," said old Josh Spillit, in reply to an invitation. He was a toper of long standing and abundant capacity, and the boys looked at him in astonishment.

"The idea," one of them remarked, "that you should prescribe conditions is laughable. Perhaps you want to force one of your abominable mixtures on us. You are chief of the mixed-drinkers, and I will not agree to your conditions."

"He wants to run us in on castor oil and brandy," said the Judge, who would willingly have taken the oil to get the brandy.

"No, I am square," replied Spillit. "Take me drink and I am with you."

The boys agreed and stood along the bar. Everyone turned to Spillit and regarded him with interest.

"Mr. Bartender," said Spillit, "give me a glass of water?"

"What, water?" the boys exclaimed.

"Yes, water, it's a new drink to me, I admit, and I expect it is a scarce article with all of you. Listen tell you now I came to take a swig. A few days ago a pair of us went fishing, and we took a fine chance of whisky along, and had a heap of fun. Long to last evenin' I got powerful drunk an' crawled under a tree an' went to sleep. The boys drank up all the whisky and came back to town. They thought it a good joke cause they left me that drunk and told it around town with a mighty bluster. My son got a hold of the report and told it at home. Well, I laid under that tree all night, an' when I woke in the mornin' that son my wife right by me. She didn't say a word when I woke up, but she sorter turned her head away. I got up and looked at her. She still didn't say nothin', but I could see that she was shokin'.

"I wish I had sumthin' ter drink, s'r."

"Then she took a cup which she feth with her and went down to whar a spring bled, up and dipped up a cupful an' feth it to me. Jes as she was handing it ter me, she leaned over to hide her eyes, an' I seed a tear drap in the water. I tuck the cup an' drank the water an' the tear, an' raisin' my hands, I vowed that I would never haftier drink my wife's tears ag'in."

"That I was haftier drinker my wife's tears ag'in." That I had been drinkin' them for the last twenty years, an' that I was going to stop. You boys know what it was that left me drunk. You was all in the gang. Give me another glass of water Mr. Bartender."

Drinking Husbands.

A gentleman, some years ago, came into my office and said to me, "What are the divorce laws of this state?"

I said, "I hope you are not going to apply for a divorce. It is an exceedingly disagreeable kind of litigation."

A couple of ladies had come in with him. I saw one was an old lady with gray hair, the other with care lines visible in her face, and look of mental misery and suffering there.

Considered. Mr. Finch, I have just met the maid, and he introduced me to her, "the light of our home" if she is here, I want to say to you she is just as good a girl as God ever gave a father. She was always kind to her mother. There never was a time when it was necessary to punish her in our home; if she did wrong she was ready to come and ask forgiveness. She married a man whom I thought worthy of her. We did not know he drank, but he did. Five years ago, Mr. Finch, they were married. God has given them one child. The father drank more and more. My daughter did not tell me for a long time; she would not let me know how she was situated, but, Mr. Finch, one night her husband went upstairs and knocked her down with a chair."

The old man stepped forward, raised the hair from her forehead and showed the scar. "Struck her," continued the man, "struck her like a brute, the man who had sworn to love and honor her. He took her from our arms, the light from our home, and abused her like a dog."

Gentlemen and ladies, such may be your story some day. The little girl who comes to you now with bright eyes and loving lips, who runs and brings the slippers as you come home from business, may return to you one day with a broken heart, her life ruined by a bad man, who has been in a saloon that you voted to continue. When you come to make up your verdict, take into consideration your home interest.

It is a book of great merit, and finely illustrated, and a person need only to refer to it to get accurate information in regard to this country.—L. H. Washburn, in a letter to the Davenport Gazette.

The author is interested in the interests of any land sales or speculation, and the fact that the book is not copyrighted, and the concealed "nor glossed over, but are faithfully reproduced" is a great inducement to the statement.—Springwater Enterprise, New York.

The most interesting part of the book is that part devoted to an exposure of the "most notorious and scandalous" of Northern California—probably the most overrated book ever written on the subject. The author's representations up to judicial fairness even where the showing is against him.

"It is the best book I have seen on the coast, full of facts, well written, and written by a man who is well known in the region and patriotic in his views."
